

HVAC and Plumbing Market Applications

Standex Electronics is your resource for your HVAC/Plumbing solution needs. Our fluid sensing products can measure level, pressure, temperature, and flow in diverse environments. Other products we engineering and manufacture such as reed switches, relays, and sensors, as well as magnetics can also play a role in applications as necessary. From HVAC applications such as furnaces, water heaters, and humidifiers to smart meters and various pumps, we have the capabilities to provide components to be of value throughout the interior and exterior systems at your home. Give us a hello@standelectronic.com

